Don't make Texting and Driving a Trend this 2022

Don't Make it a Trend
Being distracted while driving/walking isn't a following trend this 2022

INSIDE:

- You are 20 times more likely to crash while texting and driving than you are when not using a cell phone.
- Texting distracts you long enough to travel the length of an entire football with your eyes off the road, driving at 55 mph

Written by:
Jenessa S. Ca'Mya S.
Ken'Niyah B.
Faith R. and Isabella P.
DON'T BE LIKE THE 38K.

38K people die a year due to car accidents, and 3K of them are from distractive driving.

Put your Phone Down

Many people get distracted while driving/walking, and because of that many accidents happen. During our normal everyday lives you usually see teenagers walking around on their phones, and that’s a major distraction. If we want to cause less accidents while being distracted; people should start putting down their phones, and paying attention to what they are doing and where they are walking. If you start paying attention to where you are going, you can get to your destination faster than you would go when you are paying attention to your phone.

People who own a cell phone shouldn’t text and drive, that will put them in a dangerous situation. So no matter the situation, people should put their phone down and stay out of danger. If we stay off of our phones while driving that will cause less deaths yearly.

It's not only your Phone that Distracts you.

- Experts say that it’s not only your phone that distracts you; eating and drinking can also distract you.
- When at a carnival you normally see people walking around eating and talking but sometime when they do that they bump into other people.
Although some people argue that checking their phones while driving is not a major risk to themselves and others, this can cause injury or death. The consequences of their actions can be severe. Also they might argue that walking while texting is safe but the risk of injury is dramatically greater if you walk and text than if you simply walk. You’re more likely to trip, bump into something or someone, twist your ankle, or step into traffic if you’re distracted while you walk.

What you should do instead of texting and driving is stop on the side of the road to check texts, emails, or phone calls. This will lower the risks of an accident occurring and prevent the harm of yourself and other drivers on the road. It may have been when another person bumped into you on the street because they were too busy looking down at their phone instead of looking where they were walking.

Distracted Driving Behaviors by Operating System

END Distracted Driving
Keep Everyone Around You Safe

To keep you and everybody else safe around you, consider this, while driving, put your phone down and wait until you get to your destination to check messages, social media sites, or any other tempting notifications.

While walking make sure it is okay for you to proceed by looking both ways and following walking traffic symbol effectively. Doing these things can prevent fatal injuries and death.

Protecting yourself and others is simple, just put down the things that distract you the most. When you get a text message or maybe a phone call and you decide to pick up or message back you are putting your life in danger as well as your surroundings.